A seminar intended to provoke those involved in housing provision, housing design and the creation of vibrant neighbourhoods, into thinking more creatively.

Having met the Hull Gateway team and become familiar with their work, a forthcoming Pathfinder project was selected and a creative intervention considered. The purpose being to challenge perceptions of the possible in terms of the design of houses and/or the spaces between houses. Whilst it was not intended that the proposals will ever be realised they were not too distantly removed from reality and could be conceived as achievable.

The proposals were presented at the Living Places seminar.
