

David Cotterrell: Project (Cambridge)

Awarding Body: CABE, PASW and A&B

Date Awarded: 31st March 2007

Art and Architecture award

This was the final award made within the Project scheme initiated by Public Art South-West, Arts and Business and the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment.

The scheme provided funding and support to enable the appointment of an artist to the architectural design-team of significant developments. The CB1 development was unusual in scale and impact. A privately funded development, which incorporated the refurbishment of Cambridge's listed railway station, the establishment of a major public square, a new park and extensive student and social housing.

The development's ambition, context and partners provided real scope to explore new precedents for cultural investment and considered collaborative approaches to urban design.

Project description
Ashwell Property Group PLC is leading the £750million, twenty-four acre redevelopment of the area around Cambridge Station road area. cb1 is described as the largest ever regeneration scheme to take place within Cambridge. Designed by the Richard Rogers Partnership, it will achieve a huge improvement in the quality of the area as a whole and of the public realm in particular and provide a fitting gateway to the city. PROJECT will enable the appointment of a Lead Artist to become an active and creative part of the design team and promote an integral approach to high quality design across the development, to comprise over a thousand homes, commercial space, health and leisure facilities, an hotel and conference centre, community archive and museum, restaurants, bars, retail, a multi-storey car park, a new public square and park and a new transport interchange.
